Excerpt from book: CHAPTER in ROBIN sat at the desk in her private room and looked at a key she held in her hand. She had just come npon it among some papers. She had put it into a narrow lacquered box when she arranged her belongings, after she left the house in which her mother continued to live. It was the key which gave entrance to the Gardens. Each householder possessed one. She alone knew why she rather timidly asked her mothers permission to keep this one. One of the first things I seem to remember is watching the gardeners planting flowers, Robin had said. They had rows of tiny pots with geraniums and lobelia in them. I have been happy there. I should like to be able to go in sometimes and sit under the trees. If you do not mind Feather did not mind. She herself was not in the least likely to be seized with a desire to sit under trees in an atmosphere heavy with nursemaids and children. So Robin had been allowed to keep the key and until to-day she had not opened the lacquer box. Was it quite by accident that she had found it She was not quite sure it was and she was asking herself questions, as she sat looking at it as it lay in her palm. The face of the whole world had changed since the night when she had sat among banked flowers and palms and ferns, and heard the splashing of...
